Stephanie Gidigbi, chief of staff for Orange Mayor Eldridge Hawkins Jr., may have joined the run for one of the three at-large positions on the City Council.

The City Clerk's Office reported Tuesday that Gidigbi last week became the ninth person to receive petitions from its office.

The other eight people include the three incumbents and five challengers.

Current council members Donna K. Williams, Elroy Corbitt and Rayfield Morton reportedly picked up their petitions Jan. 6.

The other first-day receivers included West Ward Councilman Hassan Abdul-Rasheed, former West Ward Councilwoman Maria Van Der Meer, April Gaunt-Butler, Stephanie Blaine and Dwight Holmes.
